ABOUT THIS CAMPAIGN

To kick off National Donate Life Month, LifeSource officially launched a new campaign to encourage everybody to “check the box” and register as an organ, eye and tissue donor. The campaign features authentic stories from the community, including donor families, transplant recipients and supporters. Focused on highlighting the importance of organ, eye and tissue donation, the goal of the campaign is to inspire conversations about the topic and benefits of donation, and highlight the fact that anyone can register as a donor and save and heal lives.

The new campaign builds on past efforts to inform the community about the critical importance and lifesaving impact of donation. Nationwide there are nearly 120,000 people waiting for the gift of organ transplantation and almost 3,500 of those waiting live right here in our community. One person can save and heal up to 75 lives through organ, eye and tissue donation.

Developed in partnership with a local Minneapolis creative agency, 5IVE, seventy percent of the campaign participants have been directly impacted by donation or transplantation. The other thirty percent are people from our communities who simply believe that registering as a donor is the right choice, and their inclusion illustrates that you don't have to wait to have a personal connection to register as a donor.

Television and radio ads, buses and bus stop ads, online banner ads, YouTube videos, and robust social media placements will challenge people's misconceptions about who can register as a donor by showcasing diverse group of people from all walks of life, age groups, religions and backgrounds. The key message Anyone can register to be a donor is reflected in the creative direction and messaging by highlighting the power of personal stories and the fact that despite the differences, people are often united by their humanity.

The campaign will run in LifeSource's service area of Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota. Visit life-source.org/checkthebox to learn more about the new campaign.
